REFERENCING HANDBOOK

HARVARD

UWTSD: Library and Learning Resources

Version 1.3
Updated August 2023

Welcome   1.

Welcome to the 3rd revised edition of the University of Wales Trinity Saint David's Referencing Handbooks!

Referencing accurately is an essential skill to learn during your studies, and these handbooks are designed as quick guides to support you in your learning and help you to navigate what can sometimes seem quite confusing. The referencing handbooks are available for the four styles used at UWTSD, with suggestions for further, in-depth resources and advice on getting support from your Academic Liaison Librarian. To learn more about plagiarism and referencing, please explore our Academic InfoSkills page on the library website.

We would like to thank the academic staff involved for their time and input in developing these handbooks, and hope these provide a useful resource.

We are happy to receive feedback on these guides, which will be reviewed. Please contact library@uwtsd.ac.uk with any suggestions.

Introduction
3.

There are four recommended referencing styles in use at the University of Wales Trinity Saint David:
- APA (American Psychological Association)
- Harvard
- IEEE (Institute of Electrical and Electronics Engineers)
- MHRA (Modern Humanities Research Association)

You can find out which referencing standard you should be using by looking in your Programme Handbook. All the referencing handbooks are available online:
https://uwtsd.ac.uk/library/using-our-libraries/online-library/referencing-handbooks/

How do I use this guide?

The purpose of this handbook is to provide you with the basic principles of referencing, and to get you started with understanding the how and why of referencing. This handbook provides examples of how to produce in-text citations and references from a selection of some of the most widely used sources you may encounter over the course of your studies.

An example of how the reference should appear in your text will be shown in this box.	An example of how the reference should appear in your reference list or bibliography will be shown in this box.

However, this guide is not intended to be exhaustive, and additional examples and guidance can be found in:

- The (online) Cite Them Right database
- The current edition of Pears, R. and Shields, G. (2022) Cite them right: the essential referencing guide. 12th edn. Basingstoke: Bloomsbury.

Copies can be found in all UWTSD libraries.
You should also refer to our online InfoSkills sessions, which will help support your learning and understanding of referencing.

What is referencing?

When producing an academic assignment, you will be expected to acknowledge other people's work by referencing them in a recognised and consistent format. You will also need to provide details of the resources you have read for your assignment. There are several reasons why this is necessary:

- To demonstrate the breadth of research you have undertaken.
- To add academic credibility to your arguments.
- To enable readers to find the sources you have used in your work.
- To acknowledge the work of others and avoid accidental plagiarism.

How do I avoid plagiarism?

Accurate referencing can help you avoid plagiarism, which is passing off someone else's work as your own. The University's full definition of plagiarism can be found within the University regulations: http://www.uwtsd.ac.uk/academic-office/university-regulations-student-guide/

Plagiarism can be deliberate or accidental; without accurate referencing, it is possible to accidentally plagiarise someone else's work. Therefore, understanding when and how to reference will help you to easily avoid this.

Do you have any tips before I begin my work?

- Make sure that you know which referencing style your School recommends before you begin. This information is included in your Programme Handbook.
- Keep a record of the sources you read as you go along.
- Be consistent in the records you keep and in the way you reference.
- Give yourself enough time to check your work.
- Try to put yourself in the shoes of the reader. Think, "if I wanted to find the source of this information, could I?"
- If in doubt, seek clarification or ask for help!

How can I get further help and support?

You will be given an in-class session on referencing during the first year of your course. We have online supporting material available via our InfoSkills programme: http://uwtsd.ac.uk/library/infoskills/ with regular workshops and drop-in opportunities also made available throughout the academic year. Follow @UWTSDLib on Facebook, X, or Instagram, or explore our events calendar on the library website for updates on when and where these will be held.

There is a dedicated Academic Liaison Librarian for each academic area, and their role is to support you with a variety of information skills throughout your course. Find out who your Academic Liaison Librarian is and book an appointment here: https://uwtsd.ac.uk/library/student-essentials/book-an-appointment/ or by calling into your nearest UWTSD library.

Further support for referencing is also available from Student Services, and study skills drop-ins are available across the campuses.

Students at Partner Institutions should check with the library at their home institution to find out which standard they should be using and where to get support.

Harvard Referencing: The Basics

The Harvard referencing style consists of:

In-text citations

These are used when referring to a source of information within the text of your assignment to show where it came from. They are abbreviated details of the source you are referring to and generally consist of the author's / editor's surname, year of publication and, if required, page numbers / paragraph / location.

Example 1:
Referencing is a integral academic skill (Pears and Shields, 2022, p. 1).

Note the full stop is placed after your citation, not before, as it is part of your sentence.

You do not need to include the author's surname in the in-text citation if you introduce the author into the body of your work. This would just be unnecessary repetition!

Example 2:
According to Pears and Shields (2022, p. 1) referencing is an integral academic skill.

The reference list

The information provided in your in-text citation refers your reader to your reference list or bibliography at the end of your work. This list will contain the full bibliographical record of all the references you have cited in your text.

Example:
Pears, R. and Shields, G. (2022) Cite them right: the essential referencing guide. 12th edn. London: Bloomsbury.

It should enable any reader to locate your original source. A reference list is arranged in alphabetical order by the author's surname or, if there is no author, by title. Titles should have minimal capitalisation. The general rule is that only the first letter of the firstword is capitalised along with any proper nouns, (note there are some exceptions to this rule).

A bibliography can also sometimes be requested by your tutor. This is a list of all the sources you have read for your assignment, whether you have cited them in your text or not and therefore more exhaustive than a reference list. If you are not sure which is required, ask your lecturer.

How do I quote, paraphrase and summarise in my work?

Quotations

A quotation means that you take the exact wording as used by another author and insert it in your work. You must include the page (or paragraph if no pagination) number.

Note: Direct quotations should be used sparingly and only when they are relevant to the argument you are making in your work.

Long quotation – more than 30 words or 2 lines
Format:
- Enter as a separate paragraph.
- Indent the paragraph.
- Quotation marks are not required.
- Author's surname, year of publication and page number / paragraph number (in round brackets).

Example:

> Organisations are made up of their individual members. The individual is aY central feature of organisational behaviour, whether acting in isolation or as part of a group, in response to expectations of the organisation, or as a result of the influences of the external environment (Mullins, 2019, p. 30).

Short quotation – up to 30 words or 2 lines
Format:
- Include in the body of text.
- Enclose in double quotation marks.
- Author's surname, year of publication and page number / paragraph number (in round brackets).

Example:

Hardy's characters are not simple types. They are "fully realized human beings, with all their potential for individual freedom of choice and action" (Dunmore, 2017, para 5).

Paraphrasing and summarising

Paraphrasing is using someone else's idea and putting it into your own words. Summarising is providing a brief overview of someone else's idea. You would only need to provide a page (or paragraph number) in your in-text citation if you are referring to a specific area or part of the text. You will need to use your judgement as to whether this is necessary. Place yourself in the shoes of the reader: are you referring to a whole work, concept, or a small section of it?

Example (of a summary):

Dunmore (2017) notes that Hardy presents the reader with rounded characters capable of acting with autonomy, but these are placed in context in which their choices are severely constrained by the operation of chance and fate.

How do I reference specific types of resources?

1. Books and e-books

Most references to books should adhere to the following general format. Elements may vary slightly. Specific examples are provided.

In-text citation:	Reference list / Bibliography:
(Author's surname, year of publication, page number)	• Author/editor • Publication year (in round brackets) • Title (in italics) • Edition (if not the first) • Place of publication: publisher
(Smith, 2016, p. 5)	Smith, E. (2016) How to improve your research project. 2nd edn. Plymouth: Kiln Press.

As print and electronic books are virtually identical, there is no need to indicate whether it is electronic unless the electronic version is not an identical version of a print publication.

1.1 Book with two or three authors

(Phillips and Renton, 2012, p. 54)	Phillips, E.O. and Renton, P. (2012) Teaching mathematics today. Reading: Canalside Press.

1.2 Book with four or more authors

(Morton et al., 2014, p. 37) Or According to Morton et al. (2014) Hillwalking positively affects...	Morton, A.C., Jones, B., Collins, S. and Zhen, K. (2014) Walking and learning. Swansea: Sandpaper Press.

Note the use of the abbreviation et al in the intext citation only. All authors should be listed in your full reference list.

1.3 Chapter within an edited book, reference sources, encyclopedias, or dictionaries

Title of chapter / entry is given 'in' author / editor and title of book.

(Neyround, 2019, p. 16)	Neyround, P. (2019) 'Ethical leadership in policing: towards a new evidence-based, ethical professionalism?', in Ramshaw, P., Simpson, M. and Silverstri, M. (eds) Police leadership: changing landscapes. Basingstoke: Palgrave Macmillan, pp. 3-22.

How do I reference specific types of resources?

1.4 Book without an author or editor

In this case you use the title rather than the author. When listing in the reference list and/or bibliography you list it alphabetically by its title.

(How to make an impact, 2009, p. 1)

How to make an impact (2009) London: Avery and Perch.

1.5 Book with an organisation as author

In this case, the name of the organisation is treated as the author.

(Organisation for Research into Primary Education, 2017, p. 21)

Organisation for Research into Primary Education (2017) Learning today. Stirling: McPhee and Jones.

1.6 Multiple works by the same author

If published in different years, list them chronologically. If published in the same year, simply label them a, b etc.

Different years:
(McNamara, 2012, p. 53)

(McNamara, 2017, p. 20).

Same year:
(Phelps, 2016a, p. 25)

(Phelps, 2016b, p.19)

Different years:
McNamara, B.M. (2012) Education for life. Maidenhead: Riverstory.

McNamara, B.M. (2017) Lifelong learning. Maidenhead: Riverstory.

Same year:
Phelps, P.J. (2016a) Healthy learning. Edinburgh: Castle Books.

Phelps, P.J. (2016b) Nutrition in the early years. Edinburgh: Castle Books.

How do I reference specific types of resources?

1.7 Secondary citation

This is a piece of work that has been referred to in something you have read. Where possible, avoid secondary citations, and access the original work.

Note: You must use the words 'cited in' or 'quoted in' depending on whether the author you are reading has paraphrased (cited) or quoted the original author's work.

In-text citation:
Barnett (2013, quoted in Morton, 2016, p. 17) describes "the importance of meeting special needs in the early years" as...

Or:
The work of Barnett (2013, cited Morton, 2016, p. 17) on special needs in the early years is vital as...

Reference list / Bibliography:
Morton, D.C. (2016) Learning in the early years. Exeter: Jones & Bart.

Note:
Only the source you have read is listed in your reference.

2. Journal and newspaper articles

Most references to journal and newspaper articles should adhere to the following general formats. Elements may vary slightly. Specific examples are provided.

In-text citation:
(Author's surname, year of publication, page number, if required).

Reference list / Bibliography
Print:
- Author (surname, initials)
- Publication year (in round brackets)
- Article title (enclosed in single quotation marks)
- Journal title (in italics - capitalise first letter of each significant word)
- Volume
- Issue / part / number / month (in round brackets)
- Page reference or article number

If accessed online:
The above plus
- Available at: URL (Accessed: date).
- or DOI (Digital Object Identifier)

3. Internet

Identifying the type of information you find on the internet can sometimes be difficult. It is important to distinguish what you are referring to. Follow the examples of how to reference individual sources, such as books, journals, images etc. as shown in this guide, or in Cite them Right book and database. This rule is also followed when referencing a PDF. You will need to identify the closest matching format to your source.

Webpages created by individuals and organisations generally adhere to the following format. Elements may differ slightly, depending on the source.

In-text citation:	Reference list / Bibliography:
Author's surname/organisation (year of publication)	• Author/organisation • Publication year (in round brackets) • Webpage title in italics • Available at: URL • (Accessed: date)

3.1 Website with an author

7. Legal

The following examples of legal publications are given in author-date (Harvard) format. This may vary from referencing systems, such as the Oxford Standard for the Citation of Legal Authorities (OSCOLA), which are used in many UK law schools. UK legislation is available on Legislation.gov.uk and via the library databse, Lexis Plus UK.

Use the Cardiff Index of Abbreviations to find out what the abbreviations of report titles stand for. Note: Law students will usually separate any legislation cited from other academic sources and case law in the reference list. Please check with your tutor.

For a comprehensive list of legal and government publications, please refer to Cite Them Right.

7.1 Act of Parliament (Statute)

Most Acts and parts of Acts are now avilable as PDFs or web pages. Use the short title and year it was enacted.

9. Reviews

Most references to reviews adhere to the following general format. This includes film, drama, and book reviews. Elements may vary slightly.

In-text citation:

(Reviewer surname, year of publication)

Reference list / Bibliography:
Print:
- Reviewer name (if given)
- Year of review publication (in round brackets)
- Title of review (enclosed in single quotation marks)
- Review of … (title being reviewed in italics)
- By … author/director of work
- Publication details (title in italics)

If accessed online:
Replace location and publisher with:
- Available at: URL
- (Accessed: date)

9.1 Film review

The reputation of the film has recently undergone a re-evaluation (Connington, 2009).

Connington, K.L. (2009) 'A rediscovered classic'. Review of Dark Enemy, directed by George Phelps. Available at: https://www.imdb.com/pp03489/reviews (Accessed: 19 April 2016).

10. Images

You may wish to include images in your work. You can use images for limited educational purposes as part of the University's CLA licence. For further information, please visit our underlinecopyright hub. You must make it clear to your reader in your text if you have adapted them in any way and include the words 'adapted from' in your citation.

Including images

When including original or adapted images (or tables) in your work, you must label them (with a figure / table number, followed by the title and citation), to be able to discuss it in your text. The label is usually placed below your image.

Subsequent figures / tables will be listed numerically through your work.

In-text example: Sales figures in Figure 3 show that...

How do I reference specific types of resources?

If you include you own image (e.g. logo, photograph, etc which is not publicly available) you do not generally need to include a reference, but should include a title and indicate it it your work using something such as a 'personal collection', or 'own image'.

Label example: Figure 4: Sunflowers at dusk (personal collection, 2023).

If however, your photograph is of a painting, sculpture, etc. and you are referring to that piece of art, you should reference it as such.

You should format you reference according to what you are referring to and where you have viewed it (e.g. in a book, website etc.).

Most references to visual materials should adhere to the following general format. Elements may vary slightly. Specific examples are provided.

In-text citation:
(Artist's surname, year of publication)

Reference list / Bibliography:
Print:
- Artist
- Year, if known (in round brackets)
- Title of work (in italics)
- Medium [in square brackets], if necessary
- Institution/collection where work is held
- City where work is held
- Date viewed (in round brackets)

If accessed online:
Replace institution and city:
- Available: URL (Accessed: date)

10.1 Painting / drawing

13.1 Generative AI (e.g. ChatGPT)

Academic integrity is being honest in any work you do in your studies. The use of third parties (friends, essay mills or artificial intelligence) to create work you subsequently claim as your own is unacceptable.

There are certain instances, however, where the use of AI may be permissable*. The content produced by generative AI such as ChatGPT is classed as non-recoverable material. It is impossible for a reader to follow up or replicate (as it is not published) and only available to you. Therefore, if permitted, it should be cited as personal communication. You should:

- Note which terms you used to generate the response (to give context to your reader) and include it in the body of your text.
- Confirm with your tutor if a screenshot in your appendices should also be included.
- Acknowledge and appropriately reference all the content you use. Failure to do so may result in Academic Misconduct

In all instances, you must confirm with your tutor to establish if the use of artificial intelligence generated material (such as ChatGPT) is permissible and how they wish you to use it.

In-text citation:	Reference list / Bibliography:
Name of tool, date	• Name of generative AI authoring tool • (Year) • 'Name of AI authoring tool' response to 'Name of person entering query' • Day, month, content was generated

Glossary

Glossaries are often included in the beginning of extended works such as dissertations, after the list of figures and tables. They are an alphabetical list of keywords and definitions to help the reader understand complex terms in the paper. These definitions should be produced by the author of the paper and would be classed as common knowledge; therefore, they are not required to be referenced. If you do need to include a definition from a source, ensure you include it in your reference list / bibliography.

Language 27.

Usually, references should be cited in their original language, regardless of the language you are writing in yourself e.g.

Rappin, B., (2018). 'Une herméneutique du texte taylorien: Exception, coopération, amitié.' Revue Française de Gestion, 44(276), pp. 33-45

However if they are also in a different script, they should still remain in their original language but be provided in the script that your own work uses i.e. most likely, Latin script unless you are writing your assignment in Chinese or Islamic script e.g.

鷲田清一. (2007) 京都の平熱 : 哲学者の都市案内. 東京: 講談社

should be changed to:

Washida, K. (2007) Kyōto no heinetsu: tetsugakusha no toshi annai. Tōkyō: Kōdansha.

Referencing software

Once you have mastered the basics of referencing using this handbook and the recommended supporting resources, you can consider progressing onto online software. The library provides access to RefWorks, which is an online programme that helps you to record your sources in one place and supports you in referencing them. It can be accessed via the library website, using your UWTSD login: https://uwtsd.ac.uk/library/student-essentials/refworks/.

There are also a variety of open-source alternatives such as Zotero and Mendeley which provide similar functionality, however, please be aware the UWTSD does not support use of these platforms or provide any related software on UWTSD IT equipment.

Although referencing software can be a hugely useful tool for organising your research, it is not always 100% accurate and is not a substitute for developing these skills yourself. An understanding of referencing, before you move onto using one of these platforms, is advisable; it is essential to check your references for accuracy, especially for punctuation, italicisation, and capitalisation.

However, if you feel you are ready to use referencing software or would like to find out more about it, please make use of the online tutorials available via the infoskills referencing section on the library website or via our RefWorks page. For further support, please contact your Academic Liaison Librarian who will be happy to support you.
